

Writing: The Ending

The ending of your story plays an important role in your narrative, so don't forget about it! The ending of your story should...

- ✓ tie up all loose ends
- ✓ bring the conflict of your narrative to a resolution
- ✓ show how you overcame the problem / conflict and accomplished something
- ✓ reflect on your experience and what it taught you about yourself

Reflect...

If you're having trouble ending your narrative, consider the following questions, and address any of them in the last paragraph.

- ✓ What were you like BEFORE this experience, and how were you different AFTER?
- ✓ What one word describes how you felt after the experience? Why did you feel that way?
- ✓ What did you do well during this experience, and what could you have done better?
